Foreword

Australian Seniors Health & Living Directory

Australia has a solid reputation for providing high quality, innovative solutions and superior standards of care in the senior living and health industry.

The Australian health system is a global benchmark for best practice, thanks to strong government funding, innovation, a robust framework for accreditation, quality and regulation, and a long history of cooperation between government, service providers and the community.

Australia's growing and ageing population, along with expanding private health insurance coverage, have generated a strong demand for health services over the past five years. IBIS World forecasts health services revenue growth by a compound annual 4.1 percent over five years to 2015-16, to be worth A$116.2 billion.

Australian capabilities in the senior living and health industry span services, products, leading edge technologies, infrastructure, research and development, education and training. Areas of strength include clinical neuroscience, cardiovascular conditions, oncology and assisted living.

Australia has developed a sophisticated system to deliver multiple levels of care for seniors, their carers and families. In support of this important sector, I am pleased to introduce the second edition of the Australian Seniors Health & Living Directory.

This Directory, and its searchable online publication, is a valuable resource to promote Australian senior living and health capabilities to international partners. It outlines our products, services and expertise that can support other countries meet the challenges of an ageing population, built on Australia’s strong experience in seniors care delivery.

Wherever your business is located, the Australian Trade and Investment Commission (also known as Austrade) can help connect you with quality Australian senior living and health exporters.

I invite you to consider the organisations listed in this Australian Seniors Health & Living Directory, and its respective online version at: SeniorsHealthExports.com

The Hon Steven Ciobo MP
Minister for Trade, Tourism and Investment
Hello and thank you for picking up this publication and reading to find out what it is all about. The name, Australian Seniors Health & Living Directory, explains only part of the story. Australia has an amazing seniors health and living industry that has been developed over decades. With an increasing ageing population and a world leading health system Australia has developed an exceptional aged care sector. This ensures the very best of residential, community and health care is provided to all our senior citizens in need.

DPS Publishing is Australia’s leading aged care industry media and data company which provides all the information that older people and their families need to make informed choices to meet their care needs. Because of this Austrade partnered with DPS in 2014 to publish the first edition of this publication. This is our second edition which our team has published which offers you extensive information about hundreds of providers who can deliver their products and services outside of Australia.

The Australian organisations and businesses listed in this publication are all export ready and aptly able to assist with the majority of your needs and requirements.

DPS also has an interactive website SeniorsHealthExports.com which provides up to date information at any time that you need it.

I would like to wish you all the best with your endeavours.

Regards
David Baker
CEO & Founder, DPS Publishing
Partnering with Overseas Seniors Health and Living Businesses

By 2050, the number of elderly people is set to comprise 20 percent of the global population. However, despite the rapidly ageing population, current data in Australia shows older Australians, while they have a longer life expectancy, are generally healthier than previous generations.

With the worldwide surge in ageing, Australia is reportedly well positioned to provide expertise, products and services to countries who wish to support the ever-increasing elderly and frail requiring aged and health care services. To those looking at Australia, they will observe that aged care in Australia is principally funded by the Commonwealth Government, with the States and Territories also contributing. There are also non-government funded private businesses, as well as church and charitable organisations providing much needed services.

Several peak Australian aged care bodies, such as Aged and Community Services Australia (ACSA) and Leading Age Services Australia (LASA), represent providers of residential and community care, and housing and support for people with disabilities and their carers.

Many Australian businesses within the seniors health and living sector are exporting their products and services to countries throughout Asia, the Pacific, Europe, America and Africa.

Australian Trade and Investment Commission (Austrade) research reportedly shows that, on average, exporting companies are more profitable than their non-exporting counterparts.

Austrade is an Australian Government organisation with a global network of 83 offices across 48 countries. Austrade’s role is to advance Australia’s international trade, investment, education and tourism interests by providing information, advice and services.

The Australian aged care system is a global benchmark for best practice, thanks to strong Government funding, a robust framework for accreditation, quality and regulation, and a long history of cooperation between Government, service providers and the community.

Australia offers world-class products, services and expertise to help other countries meet the challenges of an ageing population and has many decades of experience in aged care delivery.

Capabilities

Australian capabilities span infrastructure, services, products, technologies, research and development, education and training. Dementia care in particular is emerging as a health priority, and the Australian aged care sector has developed services and resources to meet the demands of a growing number of older people with dementia.

All these capabilities are supported by a world-leading legislative and quality framework, as well as substantial investment in research.

Talk to your local Austrade representative for more tailored advice and information on connecting and partnering with the Australian aged care sector.

World class services

In response to the growing population of older people and the challenges facing the current aged care system, many reforms to the Australian residential aged care have been implemented over the years by the Australian Commonwealth Government. These have contributed to a universal provision of both residential and community care where people, regardless of income, can receive world class services.

Access to Australian World-class Seniors Health and Living Products and Services

The Australian Seniors Health & Living Directory offers all countries the opportunity to consider Australian products and services to assist them to meet the needs of their ageing populations.

This directory was initiated and funded by Austrade and developed by DPS Publishing, publishers of leading Australian aged, community care and retirement living publications and media.

Complementing the Australian Seniors Health & Living Directory is SeniorsHealthExports.com – an online directory offering a key word search facility, as well as providing comprehensive information including contact information, branding, and links to websites, areas of industry expertise and a 100 word capability statement.

Whether you’re an international company, vendor, purchaser or investor, this print and online directory will help you to find the product, technology or service you are looking for to meet the healthcare needs of your older customers.
Australian aged care associations

LASA
Leading Age Services Australia (LASA) is the national peak body representing all age service providers. We are the only industry peak body acting on behalf of private sector and not-for-profit providers delivering retirement living, home care and residential aged care services. On behalf of our members, we work with governments, health and community services and other stakeholders to improve standards, equality and efficiency within age services. LASA state and national offices work together to ensure Australia’s age services industry is economically viable, sustainable and able to meet the growing demand – today and in to the future.

ACSA
Aged and Community Services Australia (ACSA) is the national peak body operating in all states of Australia that represents not-for-profit mission based providers and advocates for a sustainable aged services sector characterised by quality and innovation.

Aged Care Guild
The Aged Care Guild is an association of nine of the largest private residential aged care providers in the industry: Allity Aged Care, Arcare Aged Care, BlueCross Community and Residential Services, Bupa Aged Care, Estia Health, Japara Healthcare, McKenzie Aged Care Group, Opal Aged Care and Regis Aged Care.

Our purpose is to support ongoing investment in the industry to meet future demand. We work collaboratively with government and other industry groups to communicate the concerns and requirements of the sector, to best cater for and meet the needs of Australia’s ageing population.

Together, our membership cares for over 37,000 residents (circa. 20 percent of the industry) and employs around 39,000 staff across 409 facilities Australia wide. With a further 27 facilities currently under construction, our members continue to be the largest builders or acquirers of beds in the industry.

CommonAge
To promote and disseminate learning and best practice in aged care service design, development, provision and quality assurance through the Commonwealth countries with the purpose of improving the quality of life for older citizens by effecting close links, encouraging the creation of national professional aged care association, fostering high standards across the industry, offering professional support, and liaising and building partnerships.

How to Use the Category Reference Grids

The category reference grids on the following pages will help you find at a glance the Australian businesses that can supply our international customers with products and services according to specific categories.

There are 7 main categories: Digital Health; Education & Training; Infrastructure; Medical Technology, Equipment & Consumable; Pharmaceuticals & Nutrition for the Elderly; Research & Development; Services

The index below lists all of the sub-categories alphabetically and the corresponding main category and the Category Reference Grid page number.

Step One – Find the sub-category of the product or service you require in the list below and note the page reference

Step Two – Proceed to the page and locate the sub-category along the top of the grid

Step Three – Run your finger or eye down the list and in the row where a tick appears there is a business named on the left hand column that can provide this product or service.

Step Four – Refer to the A-Z Company Listing pages where you can read more detail about the Australian supplier of this product or service.

Overview
Acuhealth, established in 1985, produce a needle free acupuncture point stimulator operated by a battery. The device is hand held, simple to use as it locates the acu-points and then stimulates the point without penetrating the skin. The kit is a complete package and includes the Acuhealth unit, a probe to reach difficult points, Instructions for Use booklet and Instructional DVD as well as a Treatment Guide listing many common conditions and the points to be stimulated for these conditions. Pain relief is a principle use for the device but many other conditions may respond to stimulation of the relevant points.

ACC Home Care Programs

Overview
Everyone at ACC is passionate about continually improving the quality of life of elderly people and those who care for them.
We often hear the questions: what should be covered as mandatory training? How often should refresher training be undertaken? How do organisations manage the costs of face-to-face training or releasing staff of the floor in this tough commercial environment?

At ACC we strongly believe we need to work towards engaging, informing and inspiring people to learn, rather than be trained.

Aged Care Learning Solutions

Overview
Aged Care Learning Solutions has been providing aged care specific online education solutions since 2004. With over 250,000 learning activity enrolments and covering more than 90 aged care specific topics, we are one of the leaders in our field. Online learning results in substantial savings for employers as workers do not need to travel or leave their work to learn. Learners have access to consistent and high quality learning based on the Australian Aged Care Standards for Home Care and Residential Care. Online internet based learning has many benefits. Learners gain new knowledge and skills or improve their skills anytime and anywhere; information is current as it can be easily updated; retention of information is high and learners can easily refresh or expand their knowledge. Our learning activities are suitable for people providing Home Care, Community Care and Residential Care. Aged Care Learning Solutions can tailor learning solutions to meet specific language, learning, cultural and regulatory requirements. Our belief is that Older People have the right to be cared for by people with the knowledge, practical and interpersonal skills to do their work safely and respectfully.
Aged Care Learning Solution’s current market is Australia. We look forward to the opportunity to provide tailored aged care learning solutions in China, India and Malaysia.

Overview
NPA is a partnership between Anne Schnyder and Julie Dundon, who are both Advanced Accredited Practising Dietitians. NPA has extensive experience in aged care, food service and medical nutrition therapy. NPA are leaders in their field with Julie, a previous President of DAA (Dietitians Association of Australia) and Anne, a member of various reference groups advising on aged care nutrition. NPA has a food first approach, where food is used as a first line of treatment (eg in malnutrition) in preference to commercial nutrition supplements. Where the food and nutrient supply to older people is limited, NPA are able to advise on the effective use of commercial supplements. NPA have Accredited Practising Dietitians located in Sydney, Melbourne, Canberra and Adelaide who provide individual dietary counselling advice, aged care services and food industry advice.

We manufacture and supply adaptive clothing for older men and women with limited mobility. The unique “Petal Back” design of our garments allows quick and easy dressing and undressing, designed specifically for the care and dignity of older men and women. Petal Back Clothing slides up the arms then over the head and folds at the back for complete dignity, with no velcro or studs that may scratch or damage delicate skin. No lifting is necessary, easing pain and suffering for both the wearer and the carer. We supply durable, adaptive clothing in high quality fabrics that are soft on skin yet able to withstand industrial laundering, at affordable prices.

Throne Accessories
Overview
We are the manufacturer of rails which attach to the toilet and toilet seat raisers which help people to get up and down from the toilet. The point of differentiation is that the products are attached firmly to the toilet, rather than rolled over, loosely placed or reliant on attachments to the walls.
